

Reference Number: 50025139_FEV_Niederlande

Project Engineer (m/f/d) Battery System and Safety Engineer

Location:

Netherlands, Helmond

Worktime:

Full-time

Tasks

- You work professionally on the development of electric car batteries (from concepts to series production) and the development of safety concepts
- You create and edit specifications with regard to security requirements
- You drive the further development of technical concepts in specialist teams
- You create specific requirements and associated test specifications
- You evaluate validation results
- You take over agreements with developers/suppliers about all sample phases

Qualification

- You successfully completed an engineering degree in electrical engineering or mechatronics
- You have several years of experience in the field of high-voltage battery development
- You gained experience in the area of requirements management
- You are familiar with MS Office programs
- You are fluent in German and have good knowledge of English
- You have strong communication skills
- You can work independent and have a high degree of customer orientation
- You are motivated, able to work in a team and have a confident appearance

Nicole Bahr

FEV Netherlands B.V.

Phone: +49 (241) 5689-355

Here you can find our current privacy agreement for applicants: FEV Data Protection for Applicants